Bio-recovery specialists in forensic, trauma and crime scene cleaning

Following a traumatic event in a home or business, it's the sole responsibility of the property owner to remove all traces of the crime and restore the area to a safe and hygienically clean condition.

While complex legal and insurance obligations must be considered post-event, shock and grief can cloud judgement, making it harder to make significant on-the-spot decisions regarding the crime scene.

Failing to decontaminate a property following a crime or major incident poses a severe risk of airborne diseases to residents and visitors to the building.

Remove immediate threat to occupants and avoid future building damage caused by contamination, call Bluey's Cleaning Solutions on 1800 925 925.
